

Brit King

GVSUD Board Member

The New Braunfels Community Foundation was formed in 2013. As the President and CEO of NBCF, Brit W. King oversees all aspects of the Foundation including development, programming, grants, compliance and financial viability.

Brit began his career in the financial service industry. He has worked in investment banking, stock brokerage, and equity trading in New York City, San Antonio and Houston. Brit has served on numerous nonprofit boards and volunteered in other ways with nonprofits during most of his adult life. After 23 years in the financial services business, Brit was presented with the opportunity to combine his passion for nonprofit work with his work life through the formation of the New Braunfels Community Foundation.

Brit has been married to his wife Nanette for 31 years and they have two sons, Weston and Parker.